Social Justice Work: Preparation, Action, Reflection Through Small Group Ministry, June 2012

Small Group Ministry embraces relationships, faith exploration, and meaning, and engages us in connecting Social Justice work with our spiritual journey. We are called to be intentional in our commitment, to prepare ourselves emotionally and spiritually, and to deeply understand the outcomes of our actions. This publication reviews small group ministry and social justice process, and presents session plans for use at each phase. The 34 topics from 12 congregations focus on compassion, multiculturalism, radical hospitality, social responsibility and ethics, marriage equality, immigration, racism, ethical eating, and earth justice. Also featured is a guide for creating session plans from workshop materials, curricula and other formats.
